Workshops

ALL GOD'S PEOPLE: An Orientation to African, Southeast Asian and Middle Eastern Refugees

Knowing what refugees have faced and what they've lost will help you understand all they are adjusting to. Learn about refugees coming to the U.S. today, particularly Congolese, Burmese, and Syrians. Find out the languages they speak, the religions they practice, and the etiquette that's unique to their culture. Also learn what events caused them to flee their home countries and the circumstances they've been living in as refugees.

LIGHTING THE FIRE: Engaging Your Whole Congregation

Getting your whole congregation involved in refugee ministry can be an extremely rewarding and community-building experience. Curious how to engage everyone, from your clergy to your youth group to your choir? Learn ways to create awareness from book groups to movie nights. Take home excellent theological resources to plan services around welcoming the stranger. See how one group used social media to engage hundreds of members.

GATHERING THE GOODS: Sharing the Bounty

Refugees arrive in the U.S. with only the possessions they can carry. Help ensure they have what they need. Hear experts share their best practices to furnish apartments, round up welcome baskets, and have volunteers at-the-ready when refugees arrive. Find out creative ways people use post-it notes, Google docs, and even birthday parties to gather new and gently used items for refugees.

MEANINGFUL RELATIONSHIPS: Mentoring Refugees

The best way refugees learn to integrate into American life is through the help of mentors. Panelists will share stories and suggestions to prepare you for mentoring refugee adults and children. Learn about overcoming the awkwardness of not sharing a language, activities to practice speaking English, setting goals, adventures outside the home, ways for your entire family to participate, common pitfalls, inviting a refugee to your congregation, and more.
